

CHILD CARE QUARTERLY

OCTOBER—DECEMBER 2017

CHILD CARE RESOURCE & REFERRAL serving: Baker, Grant, Harney, Malheur, Morrow, Umatilla, Union & Wallowa Counties

Hello Everyone! My name is Alisen Paez and I have just recently been selected as the Director of Child Care Resource and Referral serving Baker, Grant, Harney, Malheur, Morrow, Umatilla, Union and Wallowa. It is an honor to work for an organization that is so well known for its services in child care and family services. I have had the opportunity to work in Early Childhood Education from the Preschool to University Level for more than 20 years. I have a Master's Degree in Education and have been involved in Early Readiness Programs that bridged Infant, Toddler, and Preschool programs with Head Start, Early Head Start and local Kindergarten classrooms.

I look forward to working with staff and community members in the 8 counties that UMCHS serves and in meeting with prospective providers and families. Please feel free to call, email or stop by the Annex in Hermiston where my office is located: 110 NE 4th Hermiston, OR. 97838/ Phone: 541-564-6878 / Email: apaez@umchs.org. Please feel free to call and let me know how we might best serve you, our child care providers and the children within our counties. Thank you and I look forward to working with you, Alisen Paez

BREAKING OUT OF THE BOX

Creative thinking means temporarily breaking out of the little boxes that we use to organize the world. Here's an activity that will allow your child's mind to roam unrestricted. It's also a "lifesaver" activity you can do at any time, in any room of the house, with kids (or adults) of any age. Point to an object in the room and ask what it's used for. In the kitchen, for instance, point to a spatula. After your child gives the conventional usage, ask what else he or she could do with it. Depending on age, your child might give answers like: "Dig a hole with it." "Scoop sand with it." "Cut snow blocks or shape a snowman." "Use it as a racquet." "Reflect the sun to attract help when you're shipwrecked on an island." Try this with other kitchen implements—spoons, forks, whisks, plates, and so on. Every room of your house has potential.

Activity: LEAF CREATURES

You'll need: a few fall leaves, glue, paper, crayons or markers

What to do:

1. Take a walk and collect leaves.
2. Challenge each child to make a leaf into an animal, a person or a make-believe creature.
3. Encourage children to glue a leaf onto paper and add features such as legs, faces and hair with crayons or markers.
4. Invite children to add background scenery also.
5. Help children dictate or write a story about the leaf creature and its adventures: Where is it going? What will it do?

Indoor Exercise Fun!

Don't let snowy or rainy weather stop you and your kids from having some exercise fun. Here are some quick—and fun—exercises that can be done right in your living room.

Balloon ball: There are endless ways to play with balloons indoors. Try to keep it off the ground or just play catch.

Animal races: Hop like a bunny or frog, squat and waddle like a duck, etc.

Follow the leader: Add to the workout with energetic movements such as jumping, stomping and squatting.

Dance party: Turn on the music and shake your groove thing.

Freeze dance: When the music stops, freeze in your pose and hold it until the music begins again.

Scavenger hunt: Write up clues and hide them around the apartment. Kids can race to find each clue for a small prize at the end.

Jumping jacks: Simple but good for coordination and they get your heart going.

Bubble wrap attack: If you get bubble wrap in the mail, jump on it until it's all popped.

Clean-up race: Set a timer or put on a song to see who can clean the room the fastest.

Tickle tag: Chase your children. When you catch them, it's tickle time.

Temper tantrum: Have a fit for the fun of it. Flail, stomp and scream.

Carnival: Set up carnival games such as "Knock Down the Milk Cans" (we used Tupperware).

Bubble bashing: Blow bubbles and let your child try to smash them.

Pushover Teacher: Plant your feet and see if the kids can budge you. If you move your feet, they win. Stand on one foot to make it easier for little kids.

Popcorn pushups: Put a small bowl of popcorn on the floor. Lower yourself down and stick out your tongue to get a piece of popcorn with each thrust.

CINNAMON-SPICED APPLESAUCE

Ingredients

- 3 pounds apples, peeled, cored, cut into 3/4-inch pieces
- 1 cup water
- 1/3 cup (packed) golden brown sugar
- 2 1/2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Preparation

1. Combine apples, 1 cup water and brown sugar in heavy medium saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat, cover and simmer until apples are very tender, about 25 minutes. Uncover and simmer until almost all liquid in saucepan has evaporated, about 6 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice and cinnamon. Cool 30 minutes.
2. Using fork, mash apple mixture until coarse and chunky. Serve at room temperature or refrigerate until cold. (Applesauce can be prepared 3 days ahead. Cover and keep refrigerated.) Makes about 3 cups.

POSITIVE GUIDANCE

(Excerpt from Aletha Solter's The Aware Baby, Helping Young Children Flourish, and Tears and Tantrums)

1. Look for underlying needs. Example: Give child something to play with while waiting in line.
2. Give information & reasons. Example: If child colors on the wall, explain why we color on paper only.
3. Look for underlying feelings. Acknowledge, accept and listen to feelings. Example: If child hits his baby sister, encourage him to express his anger and jealousy in harmless ways. He may need to cry or rage.
4. Change the environment. This is sometimes easier than trying to change the child. Example: If child repeatedly takes things out of the kitchen cupboards, put a childproof lock on them.
5. Find acceptable alternatives. Redirect your child's behavior. Example: If you do not want your child to build a fort in the dining room, don't just say no. Tell her where she can build one.
6. Demonstrate how you want your child to behave. Example: If your child pulls a cat's tail, show her how to pet a cat. Do not rely on words alone.
7. Give choices rather than commands. Decision-making empowers children; commands invite a power struggle. Example: "Would you like to brush your teeth before or after putting your pajamas on?"
8. Make small concessions. Example: "I'll let you skip brushing your teeth tonight because you're so tired."
9. Provide for a period of preparation. Example: If you are having company for dinner, tell your child how you expect him to behave. Be specific. Role-playing can help prepare children for potentially difficult situations.
10. Let natural consequences occur (when appropriate). Don't rescue too much. Example: A child who does not hang up her swim suit may find it wet the next day.

Learning and Development

This domain focuses on a child's learning and development. It has a focus on programs providing appropriate indoor and outdoor environments along with appropriate and sufficient materials that support children's learning and development. This domain also has an emphasize on programs facilitating and supporting appropriate adult-child interactions along with child-staff ratios having a positive effect on a child's development, safety and health. The domain uses evaluations and assessments to rate and assess all areas of the program. Action that is required by the provider is maintaining appropriate environments to better support a child's learning and development.

Standard LD9: Family Based Child Care Programs

The program uses information from screening and assessment to measure children's learning and development in order to make referrals and do program planning.

3  : A developmental screening, using the Ages and Stages Questionnaire (ASQ), is conducted on each child within 45 days of when the child enters the program and on an annual basis in order to refer children for specialized assessment when indicated.

4  : The program conducts assessment of learning and development for each child at least two time during the year and plans learning activities based on assessment information.

5  : Samples of children's work, written accounts of specific observations, and information from family members are collected on an ongoing basis to supplement assessment.

Standard LD9: Center Based Child Care Programs

The program uses information from screening and assessment to measure children's learning and development in order to make referrals and do program planning.

3  : A developmental screening, using the Ages and Stages Questionnaire (ASQ), is conducted on each child within 45 days of when the child enters the program and on an annual basis in order to refer children for specialized assessment when indicated.

4  : The program conducts assessment of learning and development for each child at least two time during the year and plans learning activities based on assessment information.

5  : Samples of children's work, written accounts of specific observations, and information from family members are collected on an ongoing basis to supplement assessment.

Next Steps

1. Contact your local CCR&R office for more information or assistance
2. Take a look at your local training calendar to see if an ASQ training is available in your area.
3. Contact your local Quality Improvement Specialist if you need assistance or have questions about the ASQ.
4. Create a policy that you can add to your parent handbook and distribute to families pertaining to assessments and evaluations that you conduct in your program. Contact your local Quality Improvement Specialist if you need assistance in creating a policy.
5. Attend trainings or take online courses that will help you learn more about assessments and evaluations.

Just a Reminder...

CCR&R has been offering online Set 2 classes that you can do from the comfort of your home. These trainings are offered once a month for a $5 fee and unfortunately, we often do not know the date and topic until after our newsletter has been published. As these sessions get scheduled, CCR&R will email these trainings out to providers. If we do not have your email address on our database you will miss out on these amazing training opportunities. If you are not currently receiving these trainings via email please contact your local CCR&R office to add or update your email address. Let us know if you have any questions or need further assistance.

Online Training Opportunities!!!

The following 3 trainings will be completed entirely online. These trainings work best for self-directed learners who will complete coursework and engage in discussion forums. Clock hours and certificates for completed trainings will be issued at the end of the month. If coursework is not completed by the closing date for the training, the participant forfeits their registration fee- which is non-refundable

- Please note that certificates will not be issued until the end of the month that each training is offered.
- Participants need a valid email address & a reliable internet connection to participate.

To register for these trainings please call CCR&R's main office at 541.564.6878 or 1.800.559.5878

*Please note that when you participate in any of our CCR&R sponsored trainings, online or in a classroom setting, if you are more than 15 minutes late you will not receive credit for that training. It will also be up to the instructor whether you stay and participate in that class or not.

Featured Presenters:

- Keynote:

Dr. Kendra Coates, Director of PreK-3rd Education at High Desert ESD and Curriculum Developer: Growth Mindset and Social Emotional Learning- Participants will explore growth mindset and social & emotional learning (SEL) across the P-3 learning continuum including how both support Oregon's new Early Learning and Kindergarten Guidelines.

- Other Presenters:

Jessica McClintic and Jamie Dix, Founders of Imagination Yoga: Imagination Yoga: Inspiring Kids to Move- This fun, interactive class teaches Imagination Yoga poses that can be integrated immediately into your classroom, your home and/or your home visits. The presenters will discuss poses for calming, energizing and transitional times. Physical, social, cognitive and language benefits of Imagination Yoga for the child and self-care for the adults are explored.

Brett Walker, P-3 Alignment Specialist, Oregon Department of Education: Oregon's Early Learning and Kindergarten Guidelines- Participants will be introduced to Oregon's newly developed Early Learning and Kindergarten Guidelines, which contribute to Oregon's movement toward a seamless PreK-3rd grade system. The five domains addressed in the Guidelines will be explored and participants will identify ways to use the Guidelines to plan high-quality interactions, individualized instruction, and supports for all children.

Ari Wubbold, Vroom Coordinator, Oregon Department of Education: Creating Brain Building Moments with Vroom- This exciting new initiative called Vroom provides tools highlighting the science behind early brain development and empowering parents to turn everyday activities, like bath time and mealtime, into brain building moments for children. Participants will review materials and tips inspired by the Brain Building Basics.

Annette Chastain, National Conscious Discipline Certified Instructor and owner of Chastain & Associates, LLC, a Mental Health & Prevention Consulting Agency: Conscious Discipline Implementation- Participants will discover how Conscious Discipline empowers parents, teachers, and those who work with children and families to transform children's behaviors with focus on implementation of rituals and routines.
